Some participants were interviewed, and among them were:

- The first rector of the Lviv Academy of Commerce, Professor Petro Kucyk
- Dean of the Faculty of International Economic Relations, Associate Professor Inna Boychuk,
- Associate Professor of International Economic Relations Department Oksana Shayda,
- Associate Professor of Arts Management Department, Lviv National Academy of Arts Olesya Datsko.

They thanked the organizers for the professional training and the opportunity to participate in such an event. At the same time it was noted that for Lviv Academy of Commerce and for the departments, including International economic relations, such trainings are of special importance. Participants informed that these kind of events enable them to learn progressive experience, improve proficiency, and move away from traditional teaching methods. The Training focused on motivating learning activities, revealed the existing motives, including professional, the classification, detection features, and effectiveness, as well as the possibility of practical application in the educational process. Some of the indicated motives teachers have used in their practice, the others - have learned. They also are eager to attend the following trainings to be conducted within the Project LaManch at the Academy, dedicated to leadership and change in higher education.
