Workshop dedicated to students „Involving students in Leading and Managing Change in Higher Education”.

Irina Bors and Vadim Baraniuc, both students at Alecu Russo Balti State University and participants in the Young Leaders Academy told about their experience at International University College from Dobrich, Bulgaria. They shared their views concerning the fact of how culture and way of life are integrated in the educational system and what is their role in Higher Education Institutions. They explained that the interaction with the European students and professors helped them a lot to positively change themselves as individuals, to not be afraid of changing something in the society, to be more open minded and flexible towards change. The students involved have watched the LA MANCHE promotional video and were told how the virtual Think Tank Platform can be used.

They caused students to engage in search of answers to the following questions:

- How can students influence the governance reform?
- Why involving students in leading and managing change in higher education is a priority for university management ?
- How can students promote the modernization of higher education ?:
- How can students influence building governance and management capacities at USB?
- Which are the ways of initiating sustainable dialogue between students and teachers, students and managers?
- Which is the relevance of empowering students to become more actively involved in decision making at USB ?

There was obtained a stream of opinions about Students' influence on each level:

- Student representatives in University Senate;
- Student representatives in Faculty Council;
- Student feedback is a part of each course.

The conclusions that were reached together with students were:

- Activities at universities shall be student-centered;
- Students shall be involved in all spheres of university life;
- Students shall be responsible and make active choices;

- Student shall come to universities prepared to make their choices.

There were formed 4 groups 5 persons and their task was to generate ideas about the possibilities of Involving students in Leading and Managing Change in USB:

- Leading and Managing Change at the department level;
- Involving students in Leading and Managing Change at the dean's office level;
- Involving students in Leading and Managing Change at the administrative level;
